(b) when shipped in non-flowering state, the specimens must be traded in shipments consisting of individual containers (such as cartons, boxes, crates or individual shelves of CC-containers) each containing 20 or more plants of the same hybrid; the plants within each container must exhibit a high degree of uniformity and healthiness; and the shipment must be accompanied by documentation, such as invoice, which clearly states the number of pleants of each hybrid: or

(c) when shipped in flowering state, with at least one fully open flower per specimen, no minimum number of specimens per shipment is required but specimens must be professionally processed for commercial retail sale e.g. labeled with printed packages indicating the name of the hybrid and the country of final processing. This would be clearly visible and allow easy verification.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

BACKGROUND

In 1999 the Species Protection Regulations, made under the Environmental Protection Act, Cap. 20:05 were passed so as to address concerns regarding Guyana’s inability to implement and enforce the Convention because of its failure to adopt the necessary legislation.

Pursuant to the Conference of Parties (COP) Resolution Conf. 8.4 National Laws for Implementation of the Convention, the 1999 Guyana Species Protection Regulations were categorised as generally not meeting all requirements for the implementation of the Convention.

In 2013 the Wildlife Management and Conservation Regulations were enacted under the Environmental Protection Act, Cap. 20:05. A further review determined that a separate Act, and not just Regulations, was needed:

(1) to provide for the protection, conservation, management, sustainable use and the internal and external trade of Guyana’s wildlife, both flora and fauna; and

(2) to establish the requisite framework for the creation of an appropriate and Convention compliant legal and regulatory mechanisms in Guyana.

KEY OBJECTIVES

The key objectives of the Act are:

(a) to create a supportive mechanism cognisant of the national goals for wildlife protection, conservation, management and sustainable use;
(b) to create a national framework and mechanisms governing the local and international trade in all species of Guyana’s wildlife;

(c) to implement the primary provisions of the Convention (this is required by Article VIII of the Convention); and

(d) to provide a framework of licensing and decisions which support core principles of transparency, certainty, natural justice and fairness.
